Introducing Yoav Rotem, our Tour Guide

Yoav Rotem is a native Israeli, born on a kibbutz in northern Israel.

He performed his military duty with the Israel Defense Forces, serving in an elite reconnaissance unit. Yoav continues to serve as a reserve sergeant. After concluding his mandatory military service, Yoav completed a double degree in International Relations and Israeli Studies at The Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Yoav's love of Israel and its people led him to becoming a tour guide in 2005, having earned his renown reputation as a professional Israel Government licensed Tour Guide since then. He has worked with hundreds of visitors – groups and individuals, students and diplomats, Jewish and Christian – from around the world. Yoav loves sharing his passion for the history and culture of Israel, including many 'out-of-the way secrets' that Israel has to share. In addition to his depth and breadth of knowledge of all things Israel, Yoav has a wonderfully engaging sense of humor and captivating personality. Since a very early age, the Bible played a significant role in his life. (His mother is a high school Bible teacher.) Today, most of his teaching focuses on the Bible, the land, and drawing us closer to understanding The Word by visiting the Holy Land.

Yoav has written about local Israel cuisine – both street food and gourmet meals.

He is very much in touch with the local “scene” and enjoys Israel's cultural life.

Yoav and his wife live in the outskirts of Jerusalem and he is still enjoying the wonders of being a new father.
